

Get to Know the Samsung Gem™

GPS Satellites

Enable or disable location services from Standalone GPS services.

Note: Standalone location services must be enabled to use some applications

Important! By selecting Standalone GPS services, you are allowing access to all location information by any third party through web access or any software or peripheral components you choose to install, download, add or attach to the device or any other means. Enabling this functionality could pose certain risks to users of this device.

1. From the Home screen, touch Menu > Settings > Location & security.

2. Touch Use GPS satellites to enable or disable Standalone GPS services. Touch Use wireless network to enable or disable using the wireless network to help in finding your location. Using both options gives the best opportunity for accurate location information. When enabled, a check mark appears in the check box for the selected location services.